ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Composite form data is constructed by one or a plurality of component form data. The attribute, print position, and the like of each field data defined in separately prepared field data are described in the composite form data. According to this invention, when a user is to edit the composite form data, the fields in the component form data contained in the composite form data are uniquely ordered to display a field list.

10

5